I learned something in school today.

I signed up for folk guitar, computer programming, stained glass art, shoemaking and a natural foods workshop. I got Spelling, History, Arithmetic and two study periods.

So what did you learn?

I learned that what you sign up for and what you get are two different things.

D.H. Lawrence

Alles wat de Macht van de Wereld doet, gebeurt in een cirkel. De hemel is rond, en ik heb gehoord dat de aarde rond is als een bal, evenals alle sterren. De wind, in zijn grootste hevigheid, wervelt.
Vogels maken hun nesten in cirkels, want hun godsdienst is dezelfde als de onze. De zon komt op en gaat onder in een cirkel.
De maan doet hetzelfde, en beide zijn rond. Zelfs de seizoenen vormen een grote cirkel in hun wisseling, en komen altijd weer terug op de plaats waar zij waren. Het leven van een mens is een cirkel van kindertijd tot kindertijd, en dat geldt voor alles wat met macht te maken heeft. Onze tipi's waren rond als de vogelnesten, en ze stonden altijd in een cirkel, de hoepel van het volk.

Vonnegut (in 1988) issued seven commandments intended to help humanity avert what he saw as the utter catastrophe looming ahead:

1. Reduce and stabilize your population.
2. Stop poisoning the air, the water, and the topsoil.
3. Stop preparing for war and start dealing with your real problems.
4. Teach your kids, and yourselves, too, while you're at it, how to inhabit a small planet without helping to kill it.
5. Stop thinking science can fix anything if you give it a trillion dollars.
6. Stop thinking your grandchildren will be OK no matter how wasteful or destructive you may be, since they can go to a nice new planet on a spaceship. That is really mean, and stupid.
7. And so on. Or else.....?

What do a research and development lab, a children's playground, or a musician's studio all have in common?

They are all environments that encourage people to explore and experiment with ideas and failing is permitted = NEARLING.

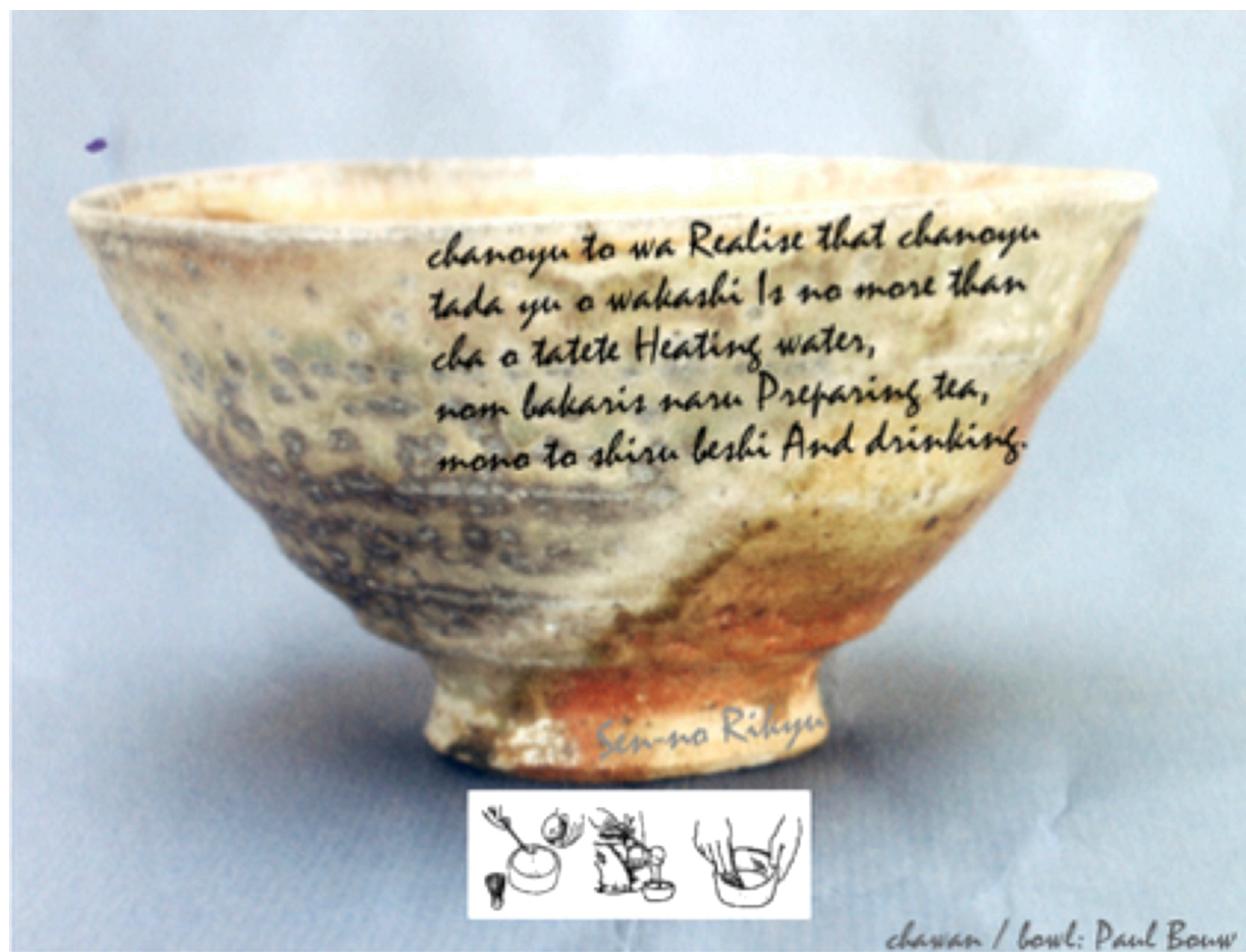

Freedom

The basic condition of happiness is freedom. If there is something on your mind that you keep thinking about, then you are caught and have no freedom. If you are caught in sorrow and regret about the past, or if you are anxious about what will happen to you in the future, then you are not really free to enjoy the many wonders of life that are available in the here and now. The blue sky, the beautiful trees, the lovely faces of children, the flowers, and the birds can nourish and heal us in the present moment.

Thich Nath Hanh

A university professor went to visit the Zen master Nan-in. While the master quietly served tea, the professor talked about Zen. The master poured the visitor's cup to the brim, and then kept pouring. The professor watched the overflowing cup until he could no longer restrain himself. "It's overfull! No more will go in!" the professor blurted. "You are like this cup," the master replied, "How can I show you Zen unless you first empty your cup."

Helder Licht vroeg aan Niet-Zijn: 'Ben je daar of ben je daar niet?'

Toen het geen antwoord kreeg, keek het aandachtig naar de vorm: niets dan duistere leegte. Het tuurde de gehele dag, maar zag niets; graaide ernaar, maar raakte niets. Tenslotte zei het: 'Fantastisch! Wie kan zover komen? Het niet-zijn kan ik nog begrijpen, maar het niet-zijn van het niet-zijn kan ik niet vatten.'

Don't be ridiculous
We've already tried that.
It will cost too much.
We're not responsible ..
That's too big a change.
We don't have the time.
That makes ... Redundant or obsolete.
Not our problem.
We've never tried that before.
Let's be realistic.
Why change? Things are going well.
You're years ahead of your time.
It's not in the budget.
If it's such a good idea, why hasn't it been done before?
Management will never fall for that
The supplier will never do that.
The customer will not accept it.
Since when are YOU the expert ?!
It's not in line with policy.
We keep it in mind / We'll get to that in future.

It was a cold, blowy day in early April, and a million radios were striking thirteen. Winston Smith pushed open the glass door of Victory Mansions, turned to the right down the passage-way, and passed a
